U.B.C.M. Studies
Crown Grant Bid

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Staff Reporter
VERNON, Oct. 9. — The most important resolution in the book so far as Victoria is concerned—on taxation of provincial and federal Crown properties—has been delayed a day for study at the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention here.

The original resolution asking that the provincial government be asked to make grants in lieu of taxes on Crown properties was replaced by a similar one recently passed by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mayor Claude Harrison asked that the federation resolution, dealing with both federal and provincial properties, be substituted so that the two conform as to wording.

In effect, the resolution asks that both provincial and federal governments pay a grant in lieu of, and equivalent to, taxes.

Ald. Percy Scourah told the convention body that 27 per cent of Victoria property is exempt from taxation and 15 per cent of that belongs to the provincial government.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said one-third of his municipality was occupied by the federal government defense department.

He said the land alone would bring the municipality $57,000 a year not counting improvement.

At present Esquimalt gets a token grant from the federal government of $25,000.

There is still some confusion over the substitution of the federation resolution as the convention had already passed one from North Vancouver dealing with taxation of federal Crown properties.

It is expected the problem will be ironed out today.

A resolution put forward by Oak Bay dealing with local improvement street lighting on an equal payment basis rather than on a foot frontage basis, was defeated almost unanimously by the convention.

Victoria Resolution On I.C.A. Act Fought

By Colonist Staff Reporter
VERNON, Oct. 9.—Opposition to Victoria's resolution on the I.C.A. Act was gaining momentum today as more representatives of municipal employees arrived in town to lobby delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The resolution, intended to have wage disputes between firemen or policemen and municipal councils dealt with by an arbitration board with a right to appeal the decision instead of by a conciliation board whose award in binding, has reached the convention floor once but was tabled for further study.

Here to meet delegates are Dave Pye, Eric Simmons and Michael Belton, from Victoria's firemen's union, and about a dozen officials from other firemen's, police and municipal employees' groups.

When he read the resolution drafted by Victoria City Solicitor Arthur Patton, resolutions committee chairman Mayor Earle Westwood of Nanaimo called it "clear as mud" and asked for further explanation Friday.

It is expected the resolution will be debated and voted on today.

One of the firemen's representatives is hoping to get a hearing before the resolutions committee tonight. A spokesman for the unions said passing of the resolution would be "a big blow" to harmonious labor relations between municipalities and their police and fire departments.

Earlier, 14 bodies were pulled from the bottom of the ruins of two coaches of a packed commuter's local which were flattened Wednesday when two express trains from opposite directions thundered into them.

J. W. Watkins, regional controller of the British Railways, said rescuers were about finished searching the ruins. "There may be one or two more or some scattered limbs but we're just about through," he said.

But anguished relatives still waited for word from some of the 1,000 passengers who were on the trains.

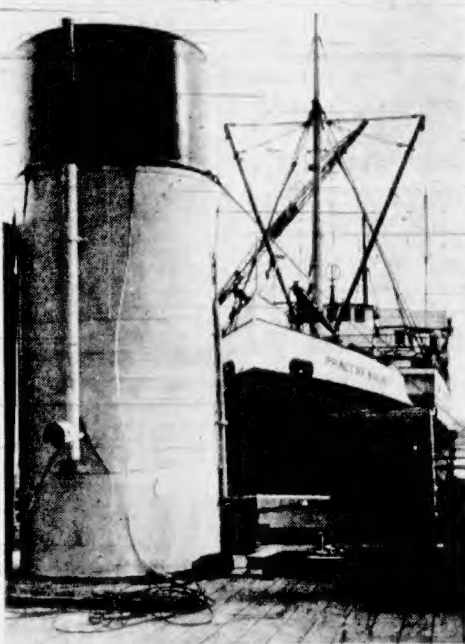

Hospitals held 94 injured after discharging 63.

TRAPPED 23 HOURS

Floodlights and flares were turned on around the wreckage at dusk. One survivor was hauled out after being trapped 23 hours.

At daybreak, huge cranes began lifting the steel framework of shattered coaches. Swooping beneath the steelwork, rescuers,

Talk about putting the cart before the horse... workmen of V.M.D. have now put a funnel before the ship. Here's the C.P.R.'s Ss. ## Shots Kill Two In Home of Earl LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 9 (AP).—A gunman attacked the Earl of Derby's country home tonight and killed two men servants, slightly wounded Lady Derby and injured a valet who tried to disarm him.

After a two-hour search police announced the arrest in Liverpool of 19-year-old Harold Winstanley, a footman employed at the Derby home, Knowsley Hall, near here.

They said he was armed when arrested and would be heard in magistrate's court Friday.

Lady Derby was attending a dinner at nearby Southport at the time of the shooting.

Lady Derby was taken to a hospital with bullet creases on one shoulder. She was suffering from shock.

Killed were Walter Stallard, butler to Lord Derby, and Douglas Stewart, the second butler.

William Sullivan, Lord Derby's valet, was shot in the hand as he tried to take the gun away from the attacker. It was described as a Sten gun of the type used by British infantry in the last war, a cheap effective weapon that usually was discarded after brief use.

NO MOTIVE

Police said they could suggest no motive for the shooting.

The initial police bulletin said:

"There was a shooting incident at Knowsley Hall at 9 o'clock this evening in which the butler at the hall and his assistant were shot dead. A wide police net was thrown around the area in which Liverpool police sent assistance to the Lancashire county police."

The police statement after the capture said:

"At seven minutes to midnight a man named Harold Winstanley was arrested in Liverpool and detained in connection with the shooting. He was in possession of a gun when arrested."

The statement made no mention of a charge against him but he will come up for hearing in Liverpool magistrate's court Friday, police reported.

Lord Derby, 34, succeeded his grandfather as earl in 1948. Lady Derby, whom he married in 1948, is the sister of the fourth Earl Soudes and daughter of the late Henry Milles-Lade.

Mound of Debris Yields More Dead

HARROW, Eng., Oct. 9 (CP).—Dirt-streaked rescuers tonight lifted off another layer of wreckage from Harrow's triple train collision and found five more dead, bringing the toll to 99.

Earlier, 14 bodies were pulled from the bottom of the ruins of two coaches of a packed commuter's local which were flattened Wednesday when two express trains from opposite directions thundered into them.

J. W. Watkins, regional controller of the British Railways, said rescuers were about finished searching the ruins. "There may be one or two more or some scattered limbs but we're just about through," he said.

Liberals, Tories Hesitate

BY T. A. MYERS
Neither Liberals nor Conservatives have yet decided definitely to contest next month's by-elections in the provincial ridings of Columbia and Similkameen.

Herbert Anscomb, Conservative leader, said yesterday that "I haven't made up my mind yet... Nomination day (November 12) is still a long way off."

Maurice Finnerty, former M.L.A. for Similkameen who was defeated by a Social Credit candidate in the June 12 general election, has announced he won't contest the seat. Liberals are reported to feel that no other candidate they could field would have as good a chance of winning as Mr. Finnerty would.

INTENDED TO FIGHT

When Premier W. A. C. Bennett called the by-elections in the hope of seating two of his cabinet ministers, both Liberals and Conservatives, as well as the C.C.F., announced they would fight.

Now the old-line parties are beginning to realize they're caught on the horns of a dilemma.

If they don't run candidates, the public may get the impression that they are afraid to face the Social Crediters at the polls. That would do the old parties considerable harm in the general election predicted for next summer.

On the other hand, if they do run candidates—and lose—it might hurt their chances even more in the general election.

LITTLE TO LOSE

The C.C.F., of course, is determined to fight in both ridings. The party has little to lose and much to gain by this course.

Premier Bennett has appealed to all opposition parties to keep out of the contest and let Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Finance Minister Einar Gundersen win their legislative seats by acclamation.

The Liberals and Conservatives may decide that the course of wisdom is to grant the premier's request.

Then the by-elections would be a simple, two-way fight between free enterprise, as represented by Social Credit, and Socialism as represented by the C.C.F.

Cash Stolen Aboard Airliner

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—Pan American-Grace Airways said today $30,000 in cash was stolen from a big four-engine passenger airliner, apparently as it winged its way from Miami to Lima, Peru.

The Panagra office here said a bag containing the money was ripped open and the cash was gone when the DC-6 landed in Lima last Sunday morning.

A spokesman said, after checking, Panagra believes the money must have been stolen in flight.

The plane took off from Miami Saturday evening, stopped at Panama and landed Sunday morning at Lima.

The money was being shipped to Lima by the Chase National Bank, Panagra said. It was believed to be in bills.

The DC-6 carries a crew of five and up to 62 passengers. However, it was not known immediately how many were aboard that particular flight.

Liquor Probe Notes Few Briefs Filed

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP).—Reluctance of some interested groups to present briefs to the liquor inquiry commission was noted today by Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman.

At the end of today's sitting he said:

"There appears to be some reluctance on the part of interested groups to come forward and present briefs."

"We have been appointed by the government to devote considerable time to these hearings in order that we may obtain full knowledge of all aspects of the liquor question and we would find it of great assistance if as many groups as possible could state their views."

The commission in the afternoon heard a brief submitted by Mrs. Florence G. Montgomery of Toronto, managing director of the Canadian Restaurant Association, whose members do an estimated 70 per cent of the restaurant business in B.C.

An additional sitting will be held Friday following which the commission will move on to Victoria for the consideration of briefs there next week.

Besides Mr. Stevens, the commission is composed of Dean Cecil Swanson of Christ Church Cathedral and George Home, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

Red Feather Re-Canvass 'Doing Well'

"We are now quite hopeful of meeting our objective," John A. Craig, co-chairman of the Victoria Red Feather campaign reported yesterday.

Mr. Craig announced that they were "doing quite well" with their re-canvass of Oak Bay and several districts in Victoria. He added that there was a tremendous number of places missed.

"We are going to carry on the campaign until we meet our objective," he said.

The campaign has now collected 70 per cent of its objective of $195,000.

Red Feather canvassers are having a worse time in Vancouver. There the canvassers have collected $501,775 in the current drive. The objective for Vancouver is $1,260,000.

U.S. Polio Toll Sets Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—The 1952 polio epidemic in the United States has been recorded officially as the worst on record, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said tonight.

With 3,227 new cases reported in the week ended October 4, the Foundation said, the total for 1952 has shot up to 42,372 cases—an increase of 339 over the total reported in all of 1949, the worst previous year.

However, the announcement said, the epidemic has passed its peak. The 3,227 new cases represented a drop of nine per cent from the previous week, the second decline noted.

Unions Vote Strike Action In Shipyards

No Deadline Set
For 700 Workers

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP).—Members of seven unions voted today in favor of strike action to back up wage demands put before two Vancouver steel shipyards.

Union spokesman Bill White said the strike vote carried "in all instances," with the membership of the seven unions showing "approximately 75 to 80 per cent in favor" of strike action.

Three other unions certified to bargain with the shipyards—the Burrard Drydock Co. Ltd. and the Pacific Drydock Co. Ltd.—did not vote in the government-supervised ballot.

The spokesman said two of these unions have only a scattering of members at the shipyards while the other, representing machinists, is expected to apply for a vote Friday or Monday.

AS RECOMMENDED

No strike deadline was set for the 700 workers involved. The unions have demanded a 20-cent-an-hour boost in pay, as recommended by the union nominee on a conciliation board.

Voting in favor of strike action were electricians, sheet metal workers, pipefitters, engineers, blacksmiths, marine workers and shipwrights.

Operators today sent a wage offer through the mails to the homes of the workers. This action brought an immediate protest from labor leaders and an explanation from a spokesman for the companies.

The companies offered the workers a three-cent pay boost and increased holiday and medical services benefits.

SOME FLUKE

"We sent it through the mail just to be sure the men got it," said the spokesman. "We sent the offer to the unions, too, but through some fluke in the post office some workers got the offer at home first."

White, president of the Marine and Boilermakers' Union (C.C.L.) claimed the mail offer was a violation of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

A majority conciliation board recommendation for a 12½-cent-an-hour raise for members of 11 shipyard unions in two Victoria shipyards is being considered by the unions involved.

Originally, through a joint shipyard union council, the shipyard workers asked for a 35-cent-an-hour pay increase. About 700 workers at Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrow's Ltd. are affected.

The companies have been seeking to retain the 1951 contract, which would have meant no pay boost.

If the report is rejected, the next step would be a government-supervised strike vote to back union demands.

Employers' decision on the 12½-cent recommendation was not disclosed yesterday.

Union verdict on the proposal is not expected immediately. The 11 unions concerned have meetings throughout the month and it will be some time before they all have a chance to consider the recommendation and pass an opinion on to the joint council.

South Korean Bayonets Win

SEOUL, Oct. 10 (Friday) (AP).—Courageous South Korean troops bayoneted their way back to the crest of White Horse Mountain today in a wild battle that has seen the peak change hands five times since midnight.

A frontline officer reported at 1 p.m. that infantry of the Republic of Korea Ninth Division stormed back to the top three hours and 40 minutes after yielding it to 3,000 screaming Chinese Reds.

White Horse has changed hands at least 17 times in four days.

The Chinese had taken the peak for the second time during the day under an intense artillery barrage.

Britain Announces Egypt Concessions

CAIRO, Oct. 9 (Reuters).—Britain tonight announced two concessions—one military and one economic—to Egypt.

Britain agreed to withdraw its military post at El Ferdan railway bridge across the Suez Canal. It is a key point controlling communications between the main part of Egypt and her eastern territory.

The other concession was an agreement to unfreeze at once £5,000,000 of money she owes Egypt, in order to boost sagging Egyptian finances.

Arrangements for transfer of the bridge position are being made by the general officer commanding British troops in Egypt and the officer commanding Egyptian troops in canal zone, the announcement said.

The bridge, between Jamalia and Kantara, was one of the key positions in the canal zone taken over by the British last October 16 at the height of the anti-British guerrilla campaign. There was shooting at the bridge when the British took over.

Tension in the canal zone has died down in the last few months and only occasional outbreaks have been reported. British military precautions have been relaxed progressively.

Second Test Expected Soon

LONDON, Oct. 10 (Friday) (Reuters).—Britain will soon conduct her second atom bomb test, probably within the next two months, newspaper reports said today.

The Daily Herald said the date of the next blast would probably be in December and added that it would be made under water.

The Daily Express reported that November was the possible date. It said the test would take place in Australia and may be designed to prove that an atomic explosion can be controlled.

Britain's first A-bomb test took place last week on the Monte Bello Islands, off the northwest coast of Australia.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

AMERICAN politicians are reaching away down for some of the names they fling at one another. President Truman called the Republicans a bunch of "snollygasters." The Republicans replied by calling

(The first term means "a political shyster," and the second means "a small, insignificant person.") A verbal contest seems to be developing between the two camps, with honors going to the man who can dredge up the oddest and most obscure terms of reproach. So far it's a draw.

Words that nobody ever heard of before can be mighty serviceable in a political-slanging match. The words sound quite sinister, but opponents can't rise with an angry denial, because they don't know what the words mean. By the time they sprint down to the public library and come panting back with a dictionary in hand, the speaker's train has moved on to another whistle stop.

Since the politicians appear to be scraping the bottom of Noah Webster's barrel, further research might profit them well. They might find several million votes' worth of insults in that excellent book Roget's Thesaurus, which groups terms of a like kind together.

Under the general term "evil-doer," Roget brings up some deadly ammunition for the big guns of political abuse. The party which gets to them first should fire them all in one broadside, so that they don't fall into enemy hands. Imagine what havoc a statesman could wreak among his opponents with such words as:

"Evil-doer, mischief maker, marplot, oppressor, tyrant, firebrand, incendiary, pyromaniac, anarchist, destroyer, Hun, Boche, vandal, iconoclast, communist (they're using that one already), terrorist, apache, gunman, gangster, racketeer, savage, brute, ruffian, barbarian, catiff, desperado, Mohawk, bludgeon man, bully, rough, hooligan, larrikin, ugly customer, thief."

"Cockatrice, scorpion, hornet, viper, adder, snake-in-the-grass, serpent, cobra, asp, rattlesnake, anaconda, wire-worm, locust, Colorado beetle, torpedo, bane." "Cannibal, Anthropophagus, bloodsucker, vampire, ogre, ghoul, gorilla, vulture, wild beast, tiger, hyena, butcher, hangman; cut-throat, hell-hound, monster, fiend; homicidal maniac, devil incarnate, Frankenstein's monster, harpy... Attila, scourge of the human race."

When they have exhausted both the dictionary and the thesaurus, the politicians can dip into Alice in Wonderland for some rich, pear-shaped words which have the extra advantage of being meaningless.

Look forward to the day when Eisenhower calls Stevenson a "silly towe," and Truman raps back with the claim that his commander-in-chief is a "mome rath." If the Republicans have their wits about them, they will clinch the argument by quoting this historic line: "For the Snark was a Truman, you see."

Hospital Workers Get Shorter Week

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP)—The first five-day, 40-hour week for all hospital employees in B.C. will be put into effect at Vancouver General Hospital January 1. It was announced Wednesday.

The Hospital Employees' Union (T.L.C.) said their new agreement with hospital governors calls for the reduction in hours with no decrease in take home pay. Male employees will receive a 3 per cent boost and female employees a 2 per cent boost. Hospital officials said an additional 150 persons may be needed to implement the staff when the shorter week goes into effect.

Most hospitals in B.C. are on the 44-hour week.

Church Built by Volunteer Labor Dedicated at Cordova Bay Ceremony

A large gathering attended the opening and dedication services at the new United Church at Cordova Bay last Sunday which marked the realization of a six-year dream for members of the Cordova Bay congregation.

The new building was erected entirely by voluntary labor and is expected to cost around $6,000, which, with the exception of a grant of $2,000 from the Board of Home Missions in Toronto, had been raised locally.

Among those who assisted in the construction were H. R. Bell, J. J. Lester, V. Landi, R. McCordie, A. C. McLeod, W. H. Miller, C. Price and H. Randell.

The opening service was held in the morning with the minister, Rev. A. M. Angus in charge. He was assisted by Rev. T. G. Griffiths, Rev. F. C. Rawlinson and Rev. W. N. Day.

The dedication ceremonies took place in the afternoon under the direction of Rev. W. W. McPherson, president of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church. He was assisted by Rev. A. J. Waters, chairman of the Victoria Presbytery and Rev. W. P. Bunt, superintendent of Home Missions for B.C.

The United Church congregation in Cordova Bay was started six years ago. The first service was held in McMorran's Hall, September 1, 1946 and was conducted by Rev. W. N. Day, a retired minister who had come to reside in the district.

He carried on the work until the autumn of 1951 when the Victoria Presbytery and Rev. Angus was placed in charge.

Hearings End In Rail Fight, Board Reports

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—The federal conciliation board trying to work out a settlement in the railway-union contract dispute has concluded hearings and is preparing to draft its recommendations.

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, chairman of the three-man board, was expected to announce his recommendations today.

The board was set up in 1946 after a strike by the Canadian National Railway employees. It has since held several hearings and has been working on the case ever since.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get out and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's helps the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

C.B.C. To Regulate Content of Programs

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—In a move to regulate the content of programs broadcast by Canadian radio stations, the C.B.C. is proposing a series of new regulations made public today by the C.B.C.

The regulations, drafted by the nine-member C.B.C. board of governors, would require Canadian stations to devote 30 to 45 per cent of their weekly broadcasts to Canadian programs, either live or recorded.

The regulations, containing the first attempt by the C.B.C. to regulate the content of its programs, were issued as a basis for discussion. They will be subject to revision after the board of governors has considered oral and written representations of private stations and other interested parties.

Oral representations will be heard at public sessions, possibly in January. It is not yet known whether the radio committee of the Commons will be asked to study the regulations.

MASSEY COMMISSION

The proposal for greater use of Canadian talent was in line with a recommendation of the Massey Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences. The commission recommended that the C.B.C. "investigate ways of ensuring that private radio broadcasters employ more Canadian talent."

The commission described the programs of some private stations as "regrettable" and criticized the widespread use of imported recorded programs.

A C.B.C. official said a program will not be considered Canadian simply because a Canadian disc jockey chatters while playing American programs. But the time taken by the announcer himself can be included by a station in calculating its percentage of Canadian programs.

Under the proposed regulations, non-affiliated stations with studios in cities of 50,000 or more will have to devote 40 per cent of their weekly broadcast time to Canadian programs.

Commenting on the new regulations, Mr. Gaetz said: "The C.B.C. can't operate within the present structure of its own regulations without subsidization and the new regulations would only tend to drive away any network commercial business."

Ontarians Plow Way Toward Europe Trip

CARP, Ont., Oct. 9 (CP).—Two Ontario plowmen today became two-time winners at the international plowing matches here as competition entered its toughest stage before Friday's finals.

Stan May of Hornby, Ont., guided a borrowed team of horses to post his second victory in as many days. The 17-year-old plowboy defeated a field of 18 in an event open to plowmen under 18 who haven't posted a victory in the international in previous years.

May's win boosted his hopes of a victory Friday in the big match which carries a prize of a free trip to Europe.

The second double winner was Bill Snowden of Nanticoke, Ont., near Hamilton. His victory today in an open three-furrow tractor class combined with Wednesday's in row-crop plowing with a tri-cylinder type plow. Snowden likely will not enter the tractor championship class.

CHANCES BETTER
Joe Tran, an entry in Friday's tractor championship, strengthened his chances with a victory today. The Carleton Place, Ont., plowman placed third Wednesday in one tractor match and scored over a field of 18 in stubble plowing today.

Sterling Moore, Queen's County plowing champion from Prince Edward Island, failed to finish in the money in the tractor class, spoiling his record of a fifth place.

Ship's Officers Suspended

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP).—Capt. Graham O. Hughes and First Officer Charles W. Savage of the ill-fated Princess Kathleen have both been suspended pending outcome of the public inquiry into the ship's sinking.

The suspensions by British Columbia Coast Steamships were made automatically.

The inquiry will open at Vancouver court house October 22. Mr. Justice Sydney Smith will preside. He will be assisted on the bench by Capt. Bernard L. Johnson and Capt. James F. Patrick.

This same trio conducted the probe into the collision between the Kathleen and Prince Rupert in October, 1951.

Capt. Hughes appeared before them at that time and was commended "for the seamanlike manner in which he entered up and used his night order book."

High Noon Cooper Really Shy Hombre

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP).—Just like in the movies, Gary Cooper showed today he really is shy with women.

The lanky actor was paying an official call on Mayor Fred Hume when he ran into a bevy of stenographers.

Cooper looked, gulped and fled into the mayor's private room to talk about his planned six-week hunting trip to British Columbia and possible film work.

He arrived here Wednesday.

As he signed the guest book at city hall, Cooper spotted Queen Elizabeth's signature.

"She writes a nice hand, doesn't she?" he said. At 51, the actor admitted he's getting a little old for those rough-and-tumble fight scenes.

"Those light scenes are getting a bit tough," he said. "They're okay for those younger fellows, but I'm getting tired of them."

Hair at Wreck Site Only Human Trace

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 9 (CP).—A length of still-brained hair was the only human remains found Wednesday near the wreckage of an R.C.A.F. plane which vanished five years ago with nine persons aboard.

The bit of woman's hair—the plane carried seven R.C.A.F. personnel and a Pentecost, B.C., hotel man and his wife—was found by the R.C.M.P. police dog Wolf.

Discovery of only the hair indicated the bodies of all nine had been eaten and the bones carried away by wild animals.

The Mitchell bomber was on a photographic mission between Calgary and Pentecost when it disappeared October 18, 1947. Hunter Will Gibbard spotted the wreckage Tuesday on a mountain slope 13 miles northwest of here.

A ground party comprising three Mounties, Gibbard and Trail Times reporter Bob Porteous reached the scene late Wednesday.

Searchers found scorched parachutes, emergency survival equipment, rations and sleeping bags still packed.

"It was only by sheer luck that I stumbled on the crash," Gibbard said. He was packing supplies into the weather station perched on nearby Old Glory Mountain.

Big International Job Likely Faces Pearson

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—External Affairs Minister Pearson leaves for New York this week-end for what will probably be his second straight big international job.

He will head Canada's delegation to the next meeting of the general assembly of the United Nations.

Indications are that he will find himself president of the assembly, a position that will throw him into East-West arguments over Korea and several other global headaches.

Addition to the Canadian delegation are expected to be announced shortly because representatives of the parties in opposition in the Commons are due to go along as so-called parliamentary advisers. These are likely to include Gordon Graydon, well as others from external Progressive Conservative members' affairs headquarters.

The chairmanship of the Canadian delegation is expected to be turned over to Health Minister Martin if and when Mr. Pearson is given the assembly presidency.

Mr. Martin is the other cabinet minister on the delegation.

The 10-man delegation is a mixture of parliamentarians, civil servants and prominent citizens and will be supported by the permanent staff Canada maintains at U.N. headquarters as well as others from external Progressive Conservative members' affairs headquarters.

Delicacies for Duke

SINGAPORE, Oct. 9 (Reuters).—Shark's fin omelette, bamboo shoots and "thousand-year-old" eggs were included on the all-Chinese menu tonight at a private dinner party here to celebrate the 17th birthday of the Duke of Kent, cousin of the Queen.

Thousand-year-old eggs are a Chinese delicacy, so-called because they are buried in the ground and preserved for a length of time before being eaten.

The royal visitors flew to Singapore early today after a four-day morale-boosting tour of the federation of Malay, where British troops are fighting Communist terrorists.

Winners and Judges of "Customer Contest"

VICTORIA WOOD & COAL CO. LTD.
Featuring the famous FAIRBANKS MORSE

An impressive line-up of high-ranking officials in the coal and heating world came to Victoria to form the panel of judges in The Victoria Wood and Coal "Customer Contest," the winners of which have just been announced.

On the left is David H. Carey, local manager of Canadian Fairbanks Morse, while next to him is Bruce L. Brown, 2725 Lansdowne Road, who, as first prize winner received a de luxe Z-30 Fairbanks Morse Automatic Coal Stoker. Reg. Jones stands beside him, of the West Canadian Collieries Limited, Blairmore, Alberta. His company, producing over a million tons annually of famous Greenhill Coals was the first to enter the stoker coal field, is now celebrating its fiftieth anniversary. In the centre is J. M. Davidson, general manager of Lethbridge Collieries and chairman of the board of judges in the contest. Internationally-known as a mining expert, his company is one of the oldest in the Dominion and produces half a million tons of hard Bituminous Galt and Cadillac coals annually. T. Boyd, manager of the Monarch Coal Company Limited represents a company that has operated mines in Alberta since 1909, with two million tons of the famous Drumheller coal mined each year. Standing on the left are: D. C. S. Abbiss, 1617 Wilmot Place and Mrs. E. Scott, 2245 Windsor Road. Both contestants, these two submitted entries so close in style and quality that they tied for second place. Mr. G. T. Richards, president of The Victoria Wood and Coal decided, that rather than place the judges in the awkward position of deciding between the two, each would receive the second prize, a B-15 Fairbanks Morse Automatic Stoker.

Speaking as chairman of the judges Mr. Davidson expressed himself as delighted with the success achieved by the unique competition. "To the best of our knowledge," said Mr. Davidson, "this is the first competition of its kind held in Canada and The Victoria Wood and Coal Company is to be congratulated on its progressive policy. Contestants were asked to state 'Why I want a Fairbanks Morse Automatic Coal Stoker' and the letters received were of such high calibre, as to make us, the judges, hard put to choose the winners. The reasons given by the majority of contestants justify the enormous strides made by the manufacturers of Automatic Coal Stokers, the coal producing companies and the coal retailers in the past few years. The sale of stoker coal has more than doubled since 1947, and this is indicative of the satisfaction experienced by users of modern, automatic coal-burning equipment."

A Cruel Blow

CANADIANS in all walks of life were horrified to hear this week of the train disaster which in a few seconds turned Harrow Station into a shambles. The sympathy of this nation, coupled with whatever practical assistance can be given, will go out to those in the United Kingdom who are the surviving victims of this cruel blow of fate. The graphic descriptions of the appalling train wreck over the B.C. and in the United Kingdom press have portrayed the scene so fully that its horror has been patent to the world.

Official inquiry no doubt will sift the cause of the accident which sent two express trains headlong to mangle into wreckage a local waiting fully loaded at the station.

The resultant shambles took place within mere seconds and involved an appallingly high toll of lives, apart from the injured and the shaken.

Probably no peacetime mishap has administered a more damaging blow to so many innocent people under such tragic circumstances in all of the postwar years in Great Britain. If the Canadian Red Cross and similar organizations can be of any service now in lessening the suffering inevitable to such a serious and tragic mishap, it will certainly be the wish of Canada that they co-operate to the full. Likely enough there will be little that can be done at this distance, but at least the thoughts of all Canadians will be with their British friends in this moment of sudden sorrow.

Sweepstake Swindles

CAMPAIGNERS for changes in the Canadian Criminal Code to make lotteries legal received support from an unexpected quarter this week, though the support was unintentional. In Vancouver it was disclosed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police that British Columbians have been swindled of "untold thousands of dollars" by the operators of an illegal sweepstake with headquarters in Quebec. According to the police statement the syndicate has never paid out a cent in prize money, the collections instead having been distributed among its officials. The police have compiled a list of 79 agents in British Columbia who sold worthless tickets, though whether or not they knowingly were parties to the swindle has not been stated.

Why should this incident support the make-lotteries-legal argument? Well, obviously the public needs better safeguards against crooked promoters and a logical way to provide them would be by bringing sweepstakes out into the open and placing them under public regulation. The police in this instance did good work in exposing the fraud, but their action came too late to save the losses of those who bought tickets. That is because the under-cover nature of sweepstakes in Canada multiplies the difficulties of providing official protection.

No country has yet succeeded in killing gambling instincts by legislation, and there is evidence on every side of the futility of attempts to prevent by statute the operation of sweepstakes in Canada. Many large lotteries whose regular operations are common knowledge are conducted with honesty and faithful accounting of proceeds. The very fact, however, that all lotteries for prizes of more than $50 are illegal deprives ticket-holders of the protection that would be theirs if sweepstakes were allowed by law and placed under official supervision. It would be easy then for the public to distinguish between properly regulated lotteries and those of swindlers.

Arguments in favor of legalizing lotteries usually are based on their value as a means of financing charities and the like, and opinions differ widely as to their merits for that purpose. This other aspect of the question also invites consideration. If Canadians are going to have sweepstakes anyway, it might be better to make sure that they are honestly run.

Is He Just a Scapegoat?

A CANADIAN brigadier has been summarily retired from the army 11 years before his time, and opinion is prevalent in Ottawa that he is being made a scapegoat. Defense headquarters hides behind a non-committal statement that does not square with the officer's military record, and in true soldierly fashion he himself remains silent.

Back in May when a Canadian paratrooper company was diverted from Korea to take a turn at guard duty at the riotous Kojima Island prison camp, the external affairs department sent a petulant protest to the American state department because it had not been advised beforehand of the move. In the light of the overall obligation of Canadian troops in the Korean theatre the objection was petty, lodged apparently because of a timid political desire to stay out of the trouble then being met with rebellious Communist prisoners of war.

Rumors are now current that the dismissed officer, Brigadier Allan Connelly, is the unfortunate person selected to take the blame. He was the liaison officer at General Mark Clark's Tokyo headquarters and, it is alleged, he should have tipped off Ottawa that the Canadians were being sent to Kojima. Other officials were involved in the matter, some higher in rank and prestige than Brigadier Connelly, and the suspicion is that he is being made a scapegoat to assuage diplomatic vanity.

An officer who has had 21 years' exemplary service behind him and a record that includes high rank at an early age and many important assignments does not become incompetent all of a sudden. There must be an explanation why the army is deprived of his services 11 years before it need be, and the country will want to know the facts. It will not take kindly to any persecution of a capable officer over what was basically a routine and normal employment of troops in a theatre of war. Parliament should probe his dismissal and have the full light of publicity thrown on the whole matter.

GRATEFUL FOR ACTION

Sir.—The Chinese community for some considerable time have endeavored to have a "Stop and Go Signal" placed at the intersection of Figgard and Government Streets. This action was taken on our part owing to the number of accidents that had occurred there resulting in deaths on occasion of our countrymen.

Mr. R. Doble, city engineering department, has now promised to have two powerful lights placed at that intersection for which we are deeply grateful, and trust that this will have the desired effect.

We further desire to thank Alderman Murdoch for the interest he has taken in this matter. We have a great respect for this young and energetic alderman, for he was willing to listen patiently to our complaint and further what is much more important to us—endeavored to do something about it.

WITHOUT OPPOSITION?

Sir.—Standing on the sidelines with open mind watching the political shenanigans in the wake of the recent provincial election, I incline to the belief that honor is gasping on the roadside and sportsmanship is on its way out.

The Social Credit group, practically unknown in the province and not conceded a ghost of a show of winning the election, won by two clean knock-outs and one on a points decision. And oh! what a shock; but more amazing the utter dearth of sportsmanship on the part of the losers, for not one man was big enough to go forward in virtue humility to shake hands and congratulate the winners. Some are licking their wounds and planning new strategy for the come-back trail, others gnashing their teeth and shouting "we wuz robbed."

They all realize their mistakes. In moments of bitter retrospection, they see where they lowered their guard and forgot to duck. It should now be apparent to all that political ballyhoo, oratory and egg-shell promises do not win elections. And the questionable tactics of harassing the new premier and trying to sabotage his victory by slurs, subtle innuendo and outright provocations show a lack of sporting instinct not easily condoned.

I am not conversant with the policies of the Social Credit party, nor have I met any of them. A careful scrutiny of their photos, however, indicated they were a clean-cut, intelligent group of men radiating honesty and sincerity and deserving common courtesy.

Forgetting the fact that British Columbia is more prosperous than at any time in its history, the voters for some reason or other wanted a change. Constitutional machinery gave them what they wanted. And if the new government can emulate the sound and efficient record of the Albian government, the voters will not regret their demands for a change. For I have yet to meet the Albian, and I have questioned many, who speak ill of his government. Respect and faith was brought about by removing many time-honored frills and discarding traditional functions detrimental to the taxpayers and inimical to the ideals of government efficiency.

Inasmuch as the Social Credit platform is based on economy and honest administration, the new British Columbia members should go one better and take the lead from the parent body by advocating the abolition of the antiquated opposition by taking them off the payroll entirely. On the grounds that this will interfere with the traditional functions of parliament, this suggestion will meet strenuous, if illogical, disapproval from many.

FRED JARRETT.

R.R. 1, Saanichton, V.I. B.C.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION

Sir.—As regards immigration to Canada, according to statistics, only one in six are Britons. In 1951 out of 184,391 immigrants only 31,370 were British; 71,870 North Europeans; 83,000 other races, and 14,000 American, etc. Just why are the British not encouraged more? The British government offered a 50-50 arrangement for passage money but our federal government never accepted it. They prefer to help people from any other country. The reason is not far to seek. Quebec does not want Britons to come to Canada. We need a change of government at Ottawa, and I hope 1953 will bring it to pass. They may fool some of the people some of the time, but they cannot fool all the people all the time. Keep Canada British and the old flag flying.

J. W. COOPER.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MAN became free, says the philosopher Durant, when he recognized that he was subject to law. Maybe instead he tied himself in knots. If law were like Caesar's wife, but heigh-ho, law is made by Homo, sometimes inelegantly known as the Sap.

You remember Mr. Bumble, to wit: "If the law supposes that the law is a ass—a idiot." He was neither grammatically correct nor condemning the law holubolus. No, his complaint was that the law should suppose his wife was acting under his instructions.

Fair enough, don't you think? And the law really does quite a bit of supposition, or presumption as the chief justice puts it and no one can put it better. For instance, there is the axiom that "ignorance of the law is no excuse." This still holds, especially in a court room.

Here surely is where logic, a tenet of jurisprudence, flies out of the window, for what poor human head could encompass the whole awful total of the law?

The answer is none.

In the last revised edition of British Columbia statutes no fewer than 371 are listed as still extant, and dozens have been added since then. Each statute contains from a dozen to a hundred do's and don'ts, with penalties attached should one don't instead of do, and vice versa.

Then there's the Criminal-national Code. How many hundreds of prohibitions it contains I don't know and I should be afraid to find out. Add to this a myriad other forbidding federal statutes. Add still further several hundred civil by-laws and the multitude of ordinances, rules and regulations of one kind and another that wrap themselves round humanity and you see how absurd the axiom about ignorance really is.

No layman can say with certainty at any given moment that he isn't breaking the law; indeed in his confusion he might be excused should he wonder sometimes if breathing is still permissible.

Not the layman alone is baffled by the mountain of law that Homo has conceived, however. The legal expert, whose business it is to fathom what law is all about, is almost equally at an off-and-cuff loss. Do you pose him a problem he must of necessity delve deep into his tomes before he can give you the solution. And no scheme to him either on this account.

The law, or at least the law in the person of its dispensers which of course isn't exactly the same thing, acknowledges this grotesque anomaly. Even judges don't know all the law, as the chief justice admitted the other day. But

It's a terribly big but, too.

It cannot be presumed that anyone knows all the law, yet this notwithstanding ignorance of the law is no excuse. This must be the biggest contradiction that Homo, guilty of the queerest ironies, has ever contrived.

While recognizing that no mere human head could possibly assimilate the vast ramification that is the law, the law proceeds on the assumption that it, the head, ought to do so.

In cold logic this seems nonsensical, yet there is no alternative, sadly as one must come to such a conclusion. As a notable lawyer of a by-gone age said: "Ignorance of the law is an excuse every man will plead, and no man can tell how to refute him."

And there it is. Even Mr. Bumble, forgetting his wife's part in his own legal tangle, would have to concede that.

It's not the law to blame, then, it's that confounded fellow Homo who weaves the tortuous skeins of rules we call the law. And, alas, how he weaves them.

International Commentary . . .

The Strasbourg Assembly

By S. H. C. WOOLRYCH from London

THE session of the Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe which has just ended at Strasbourg has on the whole been a good one. Although it was devoted mainly to bridge-building, that is a constructive process. Those who feel that unity among the largest of Western European nations is more important than the union of a few are more encouraged that they had dared to hope three weeks ago.

The chief fear, of course, has been that "the six" members, in their preoccupation with the drawing up of the "political authority" which is to control their coal and steel pool, the European Defence Community and any other similar communities which might be set up and perhaps eventually become a federal parliament, would ignore their other colleagues on the Council of Europe, and kick away that scaffolding once it had served their purpose. That danger still exists, but it is at least sensibly diminished.

It was to prevent this break, and to provide effective links between the Council of Europe and the new communities, that Mr. Eden put forward his proposals for using the parliamentary and ministerial machinery of the Council of Europe for all such bodies. As it turned out, the suggestions of the General Affairs Committee for carrying out these proposals were passed almost unanimously; the comparatively small opposition crumbled when Mr. Nutter made it plain that there was not the slightest suggestion of subjecting the organs of the communities to those of the Council of Europe.

The main discussion has centred round the question of having at the Coal and Steel Assembly and Committee of Ministers, observers from those members of the Council of Europe who are not participating. But German and Italian opposition to the presence of British observers was not lost on their colleagues among "the six," who were able to draw their own conclusions, and the result is that some of them are all the more determined that the link with Britain should not be broken. Two of the chief protagonists of this line of thought have been M. Mollet and M. Teitgen, and it has been evident that the president of the assembly, M. de Menthon, shares their views.

Then there is the modified attitude of M. Spaak towards British association with the coal and steel pool. As president of the assembly of the latter body, he has written to M. de Menthon, his successor as president of the Strasbourg assembly, announcing that he would take the necessary steps to ensure that the "six-nation" assemblies should sit in the council hall at Strasbourg. This is not merely a matter of convenience; it is a question of principle.

Finally, there is the proposal of the Belgian senator, M. Holm, himself a distinguished international lawyer, for the establishment of a European court. This would not merely act as the tribunal to be set up under both the coal and steel and European defense communities, but as a supreme court for settling disputes between the member-states and for hearing complaints arising out of the convention of human rights. Whatever may be the fate of this interesting proposal at the hands of the governmental experts who will examine it this month, the fact remains that it was put forward in support of the Eden plan.

There is quite a different line of thought which has found some echo in the press of Britain, namely that if and when the "little federation" is achieved, the Council of Europe might well close down, since it is argued that N.A.T.O. is the only organ which could effectually reconcile the interests between "the six" and "the fifteen." This is rather a superficial view, which does not take into account several important factors. The membership of the two bodies is not identical and Sweden, for instance, shows no sign of altering her decision not to adhere to N.A.T.O. Also, N.A.T.O. has not the organs which correspond with those of the communities, whereas the Council of Europe has that advantage.

It is however, increasingly apparent that Western Europe needs a forum for the discussion of purely European matters, as was shown by the nature of some of the topics which were discussed during this session. Defense is normally outside the assembly's charter; but it was right that Netherlands and Belgian delegates should voice—the widespread anxiety felt among their people that their countries might be sacrificed to the invader in the interests of a general strategic plan of retirement in the event of hostilities—even though that fear was based only on newspaper articles. It was right, also, that there should be a debate on the O.E.C.E. report, and that attention should be drawn to those subjects which touch us all so nearly, such as the need for stimulating production, which has unfortunately fallen in most countries this summer, and the question whether the time has not come to replace Bretton Woods by a new conference to decide monetary policy.

On the other hand, it was a pity that M. Spaak, who warned the assembly that one of the chief reasons why the council did not achieve more results was its habit of bringing our a number of issues or problems, on which only the most superficial debate took place before a resolution was passed "baiting the attention of governments to a state of affairs of which they are only too painfully aware." He said that if the assembly would confine itself to one issue at a time, make a real study of it, and then debate it adequately before putting forward practical solutions, it would probably find its prestige greatly increased. It must be confessed that the end of every session leaves a certain number of untidy ends behind, on which no effective action can reasonably be expected.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THE neighborhood in which I have lived for many years is in immediate proximity to a large open park of several hundred acres of trees and hills and gullies. In the district are considerable numbers of large, old houses. In the past five years, the new Canadians from Poland, Germany, and other nations that suffered heavy beatings in the war have moved into the neighborhood in exceptional force. We supposed that it was the large, old houses that attracted them chiefly, because of converting one of these residences into a boarding house, as many as 15 to 25 persons were commonly accommodated.

But it turns out that it is the park that is the chief attraction.

"Those of us," one of the Poles told me, "who have lived in old, congested cities of Europe during bombing and fighting will never feel safe again until we live near open country. To live on the outskirts of cities here is too difficult for us to get to work, and too expensive for our way of life. But to live near a big park gives us peace of mind. You who have not experienced these things can hardly believe how terrible it is to be trapped in buildings and streets when trouble starts. Barricades are set up so that you cannot run this way or that. The bombs and the shooting smash the buildings. It drives you mad."

"But if you can get into open country, or a big park, even though you have nothing but little valleys to hide in, or nothing more than some bushes or the grass to conceal you, you feel safe and free. I think you will find throughout Canada and the United States that wherever colonies of those who experienced the war in Europe are set up, it will be right beside a park or near the open expanse of country. In former times I am told the newcomers chose the old, downtown districts of your cities to establish their colonies. Most of us have a horror of such localities that will not leave us in our lifetime."

25 YEARS AGO—Sterling made a further advance, to $4.87, in New York, yesterday, a new high record since 1914.

50 YEARS AGO—It is reported that American interests have offered the Canadian government large sums of money for the privilege of building fish traps on the southeast coast of Vancouver Island.

90 YEARS AGO—The Esquimaux memorial to His Excellency set forth that their lives and property are in danger from the large number of bad customers who renderous in their town, and pray for the support of peace preservers out of the general revenue.

Machinists' Pay Dispute Will Be Heard by Board

A conciliation board will hear the current wage dispute between Yarrow's Ltd. and members of the Machinists' Union, Local No. 3 (C.I.O.).

The union is seeking a 50-cent increase which would bring machinists' wages to $2.40 an hour.

It also has applied for a conciliation officer to sit on its dispute with the C.P.R. for wage parity for company machinists with other machinists in the city.

"C.P.R. machinists are paid $1.53 1/2 cents an hour, which is lower than the current rate for laborers in industry," J. A. Cornthwaite, union business agent said. "There is no attraction for a man to serve an apprenticeship and spend up to $1,000 on tools to earn that kind of money."

Settlement in the Yarrow's dispute ultimately will effect more than 400 machinists employed in the Greater Victoria area.

Socred Councillor Hits Statement of C.C.F.'er

H. K. Bates, Saanich Councillor, said the fascist tendencies which are so much in evidence in Social Credit party yesterday registered strong objections to statements made Wednesday by Dr. J. M. Thomas, provincial vice-president of the C.C.F.

Mr. Bates was particularly condemning Mr. Thomas' statement, "We strongly resent what we consider to be the fascist tendencies which are so much in evidence in Social Credit actions."

"I would like him to know that I have read the constitution of the Social Credit party and compared it with the constitution of other parties' conventions and it is in every way democratic and includes full expression of opinion."

Dr. Thomas is lapsing into the old Socialist line of calling every one who does not agree with him a fascist," Mr. Bates said.

He continued, "While appreciating that Dr. Thomas is not a member of the Communist party, he should be careful not to allow himself to be dragged into using similar tactics."

B.C. Minister Off to Bad Start Before Union of Municipalities

By Colonist Staff Reporter
VERNON, Oct. 9.—W. D. Black, provincial minister of municipal affairs, got off to a bad start in an address to the Union of B.C. Municipalities here today.

Shouts of "No, no" prompted by an early remark on government policy changed to applause, however, by the end of his address.

Referring to the new government, Mr. Black said:

"The thinking of this convention must be governed by the policies of that new government."

(He told reporters later he had meant to say "recognize" instead of "be governed by.")

For a moment it seemed that Mr. Black was going to be shouted down until union president F. R. Goldsworthy called for order.

After continuing, Mr. Black said the new government would begin pay-as-you-go spending, a program of debt reorganization and reduction of administration costs.

"Surely now you see the intent of my original statement," he added, "that the government is not taking the lead in Canada in civil defense preparations."

He noted, however, that the government was "not at all happy with the apathy and complacency displayed by a great many areas in the province towards this important matter."

He promised that the government would "lend every effort" to further the cause of civil defense in the province.

On regional planning, Mr. Black said that though some believe in "bigness for bigness's sake," it might be wise to "ask ourselves whether the interests of the community and the country might not be better served by separated but conveniently located smaller centres than by sprawling metropolises."

He then outlined some of the financial and congestion problems now being experienced by big cities.

Community planning did not necessarily mean "marble palaces and scented fountains," but was a method of making "life easier and more convenient for the ordinary person."

DISAPPOINTED

Hoping for an announcement of government policy on education finance, the convention was openly disappointed when Mr. Black gave them none. He said it was "so difficult and so vast a subject" that he was not able to give an answer at this time.

Municipal delegates hoping for a full study of the problem.

He did say that he felt one of the chief problems in the financing of education was not so much "inadequate provincial support of education" as "maldistribution of grants."

He apologized for not giving the hard-pressed municipalities an answer but assured them with these words:

"Fear not, your problems will be heard."

He promised co-operation with the union urging them to "pull together" and added that if they wanted the Municipal Act opened "it shall be opened."

He said he didn't care what the politics of municipal representatives were because he represented all the people.

"It is a great honor to be a minister of the Crown but a greater one to be human," he said.

Farouk Gold Said Found

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 9 (Reuters).—A secret gold hoard belonging to former King Farouk today was reported uncovered at Inehass, his lavish country estate about 40 miles east of Cairo. The newspaper Al Akhbar said an unrevealed quantity of gold was lodged in secret safes on the estate.

Municipal Union Loses Grand Old Man

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 9 (CP).—"The grand old man" of municipal affairs in B.C., R. E. F. Sewell of Saanich, is dropping out.

Mr. Sewell, veteran secretary-treasurer of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, announced at the opening session of the union's annual convention today that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Dick Sewell has been the core of the union, comprising 96 cities, districts and villages, for 20 years, taking an active part in its inception and growth into one of B.C.'s major organizations.

B.C. Policy On Finance Promised

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 9 (CP).—B.C.'s Social Credit government will set its financial policy before November 30.

Municipal Affairs Minister W. D. Black told the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention today that departmental estimates must be in by November 15 and legislation for the next session by November 30. Policy must be established before the latter date.

Fishing Banned At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 9.—Port Alberni harbor, from Point to Somers River tidal waters, will be closed to all fishing, including sports angling, effective midnight Sunday.

Federal fisheries inspector for the west coast J. G. McIndoe made the announcement here today, stating the closure, first since 1949, is being instituted to conserve the current run of spring (tyee) salmon and cohoes.

The ban of sports fishing will not meet with much opposition from this district's large number of tyee-seeking fishermen as the Port Alberni Tyee Club's official season will wind up at noon Sunday.

The die-hards are consoled by the fact they will still be able to go after tyee in waters outside the ban limits, which seaward correspond roughly to the extent of this city's harbor.

The Case of the Negligent Nymph

BY ERIC STANLEY GARDNER

CHAPTER 1

From his rented canoe, Perry Mason sized up the Alder estate as a general size-up of a prospective battlefield. The moon served to illuminate Mason's objective, an island connected with the mainland by a 30-foot steel-and-concrete bridge. On that island George S. Alder's huge, two-story mansion faced the narrow channel, as a castle might look down upon its protecting moat.

Fencing off the estate was a brick wall topped with wrought-iron and studded with broken glass. On the bay side were signs warning trespassers they would be prosecuted. A long wharf ran out into the sluggish waters, a sandpit on the northern side gave a crescent-shaped bathing beach.

Alder's legal position seemed, at least on the surface, to be fully as impregnable as the island estate which isolated him and his wealth from the mainland. But Perry Mason was by no means an ordinary lawyer. It was never his policy to attack where the enemy expected the blow to fall. Rather, he preferred to devise some ingenious objective all his own. Hence his nocturnal survey of the place which meant more to Alder than all of the far-flung empire which he controlled.

ENTERTAINING

This evening Alder was entertaining. His guests had come from the two large, seagoing yachts which were riding their moorings a quarter of a mile off shore. Two power launches were tied up at the private wharf. Rumor had it that beams of invisible light guarded this wharf so that the moment any craft approached within 10 feet an alarm siren would automatically floodlights blazed into brilliance, and a powerful siren sent out its piercing scream.

Mason silently paddled his canoe close to the sandpit, studying the contours. A hooded electric light illuminated the legend that could be read 150 feet away: "PRIVATE PROPERTY. NO TRESPASSING. BEWARE OF VICIOUS DOGS. WHO WILL ATTACK THEE? PASSERS ON SIGHT, KEEP OFF!"

It was at this point in his survey that Mason suddenly became conscious of the swimmer. The figure was drifting along down the tide with slow, evenly timed, powerful strokes. The figure landed on the sandpit within a few feet of the illuminated sign. The swimmer was a woman. She had a small water-proof sack tied to her back. From this sack she removed a bath towel with which she dried her slender, athletic body. Then she produced stockings, shoes, and a low-cut evening gown.

BLONDINE

Fascinated, Mason shipped his dripping paddle into the rented canoe, took night glasses from their case and raised the binoculars to his eyes. She was blond, good-looking and apparently completely assured.

Once she had adjusted the sleeveless, strapless gown, she made up her face by the aid of a compact, using the light from the warning sign to guide her. She left the waterproof bag on the ground, draped the wet bath towel over the support which held the light above the warning sign, and started walking toward the house.

From the house came the patter of voices, an occasional burst of general merriment. Mason watched through his binoculars until the young woman was at length swallowed in the shadow of the house. For some 15 minutes Mason sat studying the house while he awaited developments.

He glanced impatiently at the luminous dial of his wrist watch. It was getting late, and he wanted to return the canoe and get back to town. He had surveyed the accretion line of the sandpit enough to form a definite plan of action.

Within the next few days George S. Alder would be given a job which would cause him considerable inconvenience. Yet, at the moment, the lawyer dared not leave. He could not overlook the potential possibilities inherent in this surreptitious visitor who

The bidding:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass
2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
4♠ Pass 4♠ Pass
5♠ Pass All Pass

West opened the two of hearts, and North cheerfully remarked: "Not many spades, partner, but when you bid diamonds it looked like you could ruff a couple of cards. So I got optimistic."

Perhaps that put an idea into declarer's mind, but at any rate he won the heart, cashed the ace of diamonds and trumped a diamond, came back to his hand with another high heart and trumped his last diamond. Then he cashed his ace-king of clubs, intending to lead a third club and discard his losing heart. But before matters went that far, West had trumped the second club lead and the contract was hopeless.

"You had a better play," commented North sadly. "Instead of trumping the diamond queen, why not discard one of dummy's hearts? If West has the king you have only to ruff one diamond; if East has the king, when he returns a heart you win it, lead your diamond jack and discard my last heart, then trump your last heart with the ace of spades. It happens that the spades don't split, so you won't make it anyway, but it's a better play."

Perhaps it is — but South has the hand ice-cold without any huffing at all. After winning the heart lead, he yanks four rounds of clubs. If the finesse loses, North's clubs are good for the balance. If East attempts to prevent the establishment of the club suit by refusing to win the first club trick, South continues the suit, discarding a heart on the third round of clubs and then abandons the club suit, conceding a diamond trick. Nothing less than five trumps or five clubs in one hand can defeat this line of play.

Crooks in Britain Plan Rackets for Coronation

LONDON, Oct. 7 (NANA-KEM-NEWS) — Britain's new-mob leaders and racket crooks aim to make millions of pounds from nationwide coronation rackets, but the inland revenue authorities have a secret plan to beat them. Mushroom firms operating from small sheds and garages are to turn out thousands of shoddy souvenirs on which they hope to dodge the purchase tax, but the tax will be charged to the public.

Provided they do not exceed a valued quota of £500 ($1,400) these firms, which produce fancy goods mainly for seaside-souvenir shops, need make no purchase-tax returns. So they produce about £450 ($1,260) worth of goods and then close down.

They change their names, move their premises and start again.

For two months leading black-market gangs have dropped their usual rackets and have concentrated on moving in on these small-time firms. Syndicates have been formed and a fantastic organization of "salesmen" set up.

At least six small "factories" are lined up already. They even have fancy boxes ready for packing the souvenirs.

Special investigators who have been working for weeks on a general check-up know that the gang which had sole control of the notorious photo-snatching racket in Trafalgar Square plans to insure by thug methods that no one is able to sell souvenirs in the heart of London without their "permission."

One of their lines is to be the production of periscopes costing a nickel to produce, to be sold at 70 cents each.

The customs authorities also know of one notorious racketeer family which has had the same products running under five different names for the last two years. The cost of the material is very small — mostly shells from fish shops, dye and coloring mixture and red, white and blue flowers.

Guillotine Operators Given Raise in Pay

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 9 (AP) — Guillotine operators won a 15-cent-an-hour pay raise Tuesday. The guillotines are not the beheading kind, however. They are machines used in thread-making.

The White House in Washington, home of the United States President, has been painted white since 1817.

TURNED CANOE

Mason turned the canoe, sent it swiftly to the exhausted girl.

"Get up," he said. "Climb in over the bow so you don't upset us."

She glanced over her shoulder in a swift, desperate appraisal. As though realizing she had no other alternative, she raised her right hand, dropped something in the bow of the canoe. Then she came over the bow and said, "I don't know — why you are — but you'd better paddle like hell!"

Flashlights appeared on the shore. One of the more powerful flashlights caught the canoe. Mason sent the canoe down the bay, speeding along on the tide. "Well?" he asked at length.

She said, "Let me get my breath and I'll tell you all about it."

"Where do you want to go?"

"Out to my yacht. It's a little job, the Kathy Kay."

Mason said, "We'll stay here until we know what the situation is. I acted on impulse. The sight of that dog dashing after you with bared fangs speeded my generous impulses. Who are you? What were you after?"

"I'm an international gem thief and those are the dowager's jewels I just tossed in the bottom of the canoe."

JOKY

"Intended as a joke," Mason said, "but since it was your idea, we'll investigate it."

"Oh, all right," she said. "I'll tell you, but give me a few seconds to catch my breath." She remembered her exaggeration — her breathlessness while she fought for time. "The water saved me," she admitted. "And your providential canoe. How did you happen to be there?"

Mason grinned. "Let me (puff, puff) get my breath and then I'll (puff, puff) tell you all about it."

The moonlight fell on her face, and Mason saw young symmetrical features, deep brown eyes, high cheekbones, a short nose, a full-lipped but small mouth, and a figure clothed in clinging wet garments which outlined it admirably.

She reached into the bow, raised an object which glistened in the moonlight and extended it to the lawyer. "There are the dowager's diamonds," she said.

The object was a plain glass bottle carefully stoppered, roughened on one side as though half of the bottle had been made from ground glass. On the inside was something white, not a liquid, but what seemed to be a piece of tightly rolled paper.

This lady & man came into our store, the baby he carried, you'd simply adore. "Something in a crib," he said to me, the baby had a dimple in her plump knee. "We've some very nice cribs, if you'll come this way," & while we were walking I went on to say: "this Indian summer is sure casting its spell, summer it seems just can't say farewell." We came to the cribs, I gave one a slide, "now here's a beauty & it has a drop-side." "How much is that?"—and he to me: "$32.50." I replied was the fee. "My," he exclaimed, "that is a nice crib." The baby gurgled a gobbly glib. "Too much," he said, "cause we need a high chair, how much is THAT one . . . over there?" "This one," I replied, "is a bargain-thrifty, the best we have had for $21.50." "What about that?" he said to his Missus. I was mentally throwing the baby some kisses. "Well, it's nice," she said, "it's very nice, I suppose for the money it would suffice. The other is better, the mattress thicker," but at $32.50 he was rather a sticker. I rattled on, with my selling ad lib, but I didn't think I could sell that crib. It got to that place, I hate the sound, "C'mon mother . . . we'll look around." Now this called for fast action, plus all my charm, so I took the baby in my arms, & into the crib I put her down; she had wide open eyes of beautiful brown. I tickled her knees, she flashed 2 teeth, then she rolled over on the mattress beneath. "LOOK," I enthused, "how she holds up her head for just 6 months . . . you've a real thoroughbred." We all bent over & made a big fuss, baby swiveled her eyes and laughed up at us. "You LIKE it in there," said Daddy & smiled, Mummy too was completely beguiled. This "Bundle From Brentwood" pulled at her bib. "Ah Goo," she dribbled, AND SOLD OUR BEST CRIB.

Woman Admits Shoplifting: Jailed 20 Days

Sarah Lumley, no fixed address, was sentenced to 20 days in jail after pleading guilty to a petty theft charge in city police court yesterday morning.

She shoplifted one pair of men's socks, one bottle of aspirin tablets and a tin of cigarette tobacco from the Hudson's Bay Company last Wednesday morning. Total value of the articles was approximately $2, according to evidence presented by store detective Harry G. Mills.

Frederick Sumner, of H.M.C.S. Naden, was fined $25 after pleading guilty to operating a car with no current year's driver's license. Donald C. Allen, also of Naden, was fined $25 on pleading guilty to a violation of a restricted driver's license.

Minority Judgment Disagrees Union Man Proved in Contempt

The injunction order against Tony Poje and 14 I.W.A. pickets should never have been issued and Chief Justice Wendell B. Faris should not have proceeded with the contempt charge, according to a minority judgment by Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran.

These were among the reasons contained in the written judgment handed down by Mr. Justice O'Halloran—dissenting with the majority finding in the B.C. court of appeal which dismissed Tony Poje's appeal against a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $3,000 for contempt of a court injunction.

The majority judgment from Mr. Justice Sidney Smith and Mr. Justice H. I. Bird still is to be received. Poje, the Nanaimo I.W.A. business manager, and 14 others refused to obey a court order to stop picketing a vessel berthed at Nanaimo during last summer's I.W.A. strike.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne granted the injunction in Supreme Court July 15 and the pickets, allegedly led by Poje, defied it. When the company declined to prosecute, the Chief Justice himself proceeded.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran says

If you now suffer from the itching soreness and burning pain of piles you can be helped.

Just get a package of Hem-Roid, an internal plus treatment, at any drug store and use as directed. You will be pleased at how quickly your pile trouble is relieved. Only $1.98 for the big 60-tablet package. If you are not 100% pleased after using Hem-Roid you can return it as a test, ask for your money back. Refund agreement by all drug stores.

Poje and the 14 charged with him were simply maintaining their civil right to picket and their actions did not constitute criminal contempt. If something did occur beyond legal picketing it has not emerged as anything serious.

He contended proceedings were

"Tony Poje would have to be found guilty of criminal contempt before the other 14 could be aiders and abettors," he said. "But in my judgment the evidence does not disclose beyond all reasonable doubt that Poje was guilty of criminal contempt. He did not interfere with the sheriff, nor have any threats, abuse, violence or clear intimidation been brought home to him.

"The allegation against Poje, to my mind, discloses nothing in excess of legal picketing . . . Mr. Justice O'Halloran continued: "They simply stood there mute and curious, listening to the firm.
